Instructed by Chief (Ret.) Brett Meade, Ed.D., Senior Law Enforcement Program Manager at the National Police Foundation

Chief (Ret.) Brett Meade, Ed.D., author of OnPolicing's most popular blog article that challenges our ideas around recruitment and retention, will offer essential insights and a best practices discussion regarding the challenges faced in recruitment and retention of officers. Chief Meade's views are unique — drawing from more than 35 years of law enforcement experience at all levels and informed by a doctorate in Organizational Leadership from Northcentral University, his specialization is factors influencing voluntary turnover and retention of sworn law enforcement personnel. Having served as Deputy Chief of Police of the University of Central Florida Police Department and Captain with the Orange County Sheriff's Office, Chief Meade will provide strategies and innovation support to develop a specialized and holistic departmental strategy to target, hire, and retain high-quality officers. This class will be instructed via an interactive webinar format and viewers will have the opportunity to answer polls — taking a deeper look at challenges and strategies for recruiting from law enforcement executives' point of view.

Speaker Spotlight

Chief Brett Meade began his police career in 1982 with the DeLand Police Department in Florida. He was appointed Deputy Chief of Police of the University of Central Florida Police Department in September of 2014 and retired with the honorary rank of Chief in October 2018. The University of Central Florida is the second largest university in the United States with over 80,000 students, faculty, and staff. Chief Meade previously served almost 25 years with the Orange County Sheriff's Office in Orlando, Florida, retiring as a Patrol Commander, with practical command leadership in administrative as well as operational positions to include Campus Law Enforcement, Internal Affairs, Tourism Safety, Intelligence, Patrol Command, and Youth Prevention programs. He embraces community policing and intelligence-led policing philosophies, with documented and proven success in crime reduction by developing and implementing successful collaborative community strategies, anti-gang initiatives, and prevention programs utilizing a team approach.
